

Back on set with MGL Media

A new approach to filming, post-lockdown

After the break ...

...we're guessing you have lots to say?

We're back on set and ready to help you say it – safely and effectively.

Video is an excellent way to communicate with both your colleagues and your customers, but in these days of social distancing and remote working it's now an essential tool to help you build stronger teams and reassure your audience.

Self-shot phone clips and Skype calls have served their purpose but by using professional filmmakers, you can get back to what you do best while we use our skills to produce high-quality videos that reflect the high standards of your brand.

Getting the new message out there

Need to get your staff up to speed with revised health and safety guidelines?

Recruit a new workforce?

Remind and reassure your customers that you're open for business?

Using the new broadcast industry guidelines we're ready to help you use the power of video to get things moving again.

Simple solutions

Years of experience mean we're skilled in crafting effective messages, and creating engaging video content tailored to your audience.

We also have time-saving equipment to take the pain out of production. Utilise our auto-prompter so your CEO can deliver their message with confidence. Take advantage of our broadcast camera lenses to film your staff and premises at a safe distance for a slick social media campaign.

With skilled editing we can also re-purpose your existing archive footage in a fresh, informative way, relevant to the current situation.

Location. Location. Location.

With careful planning and consideration, we work together with our clients to assess the safest and most practical place to film. In most instances, we'll still be able to come to you, but we appreciate many businesses and organisations have adopted home working practices.

If filming at your office or premises is difficult, no problem. We have local studio facilities or can arrange a suitable venue to create a bespoke studio for your project. We take care of the logistics so you can focus on your message.

Your production, in safe hands

We're a friendly and approachable crew, trained in line with the latest television industry guidelines. This ensures we adhere to the strictest health and hygiene practices while filming.

We'll keep our crew small and our kit clean. We'll practice social distancing to keep cast and crew safe and do what we've always done best – put everyone at ease to make the best films we can.
